In this little book I have shared photos and stories about 4 bird species that I was fortunate to capture on film in 2010. Upon returning to my beloved Wyoming I began taking walks along the trails in this new part of the state. In the first year I introduced my new husband to birding and we identified over 60 species some that were new and delightful to see like the black crowned night heron on his birthday and a pair of wood duck and then the female wood duck with her ducklings that we watched all summer. The next year increased our number and gave us hours of pleasure. If you are not a birder I urge you to go to your library or bookstore and begin today.
